

Learning food safety at Kagawa University

KAGAWA UNIVERSITY
Graduate School of Agriculture

Career Development Program on Safety for Frozen Foods
Support Office, Kagawa University
2393 Ikenobe, Miki-cho, Kida-gun, Kagawa 761-0795 JAPAN
Tel: +81-87-891-3127 Fax: +81-87-891-3128
E-mail: asiaz1@jim.ao.kagawa-u.ac.jp
<http://www.ag.kagawa-u.ac.jp/asiajinzai/english/index.html>

Career development program

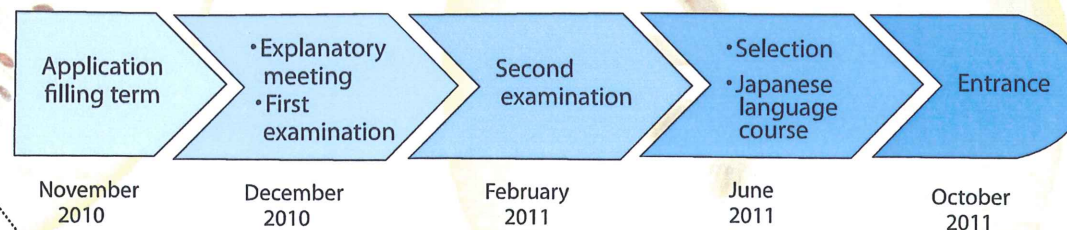

The Career Development Program for foreign students in Japan will promote the acceptance and employment of exceptional foreign students to meet the goal of fostering innovative human resources.

In 2009, The Japanese government (MEXT) selected the Graduate School of Agriculture, Kagawa University as a center for excellence in Safety for foods in Japan. Due to governmental reform last year, this program is managed independently without government support.

Program goals

Kagawa Prefecture hosts many multi-national companies that are leading food importers. The Kagawa University Career Development Program will enable foreign students to become leaders that can develop food safety systems and business globally.

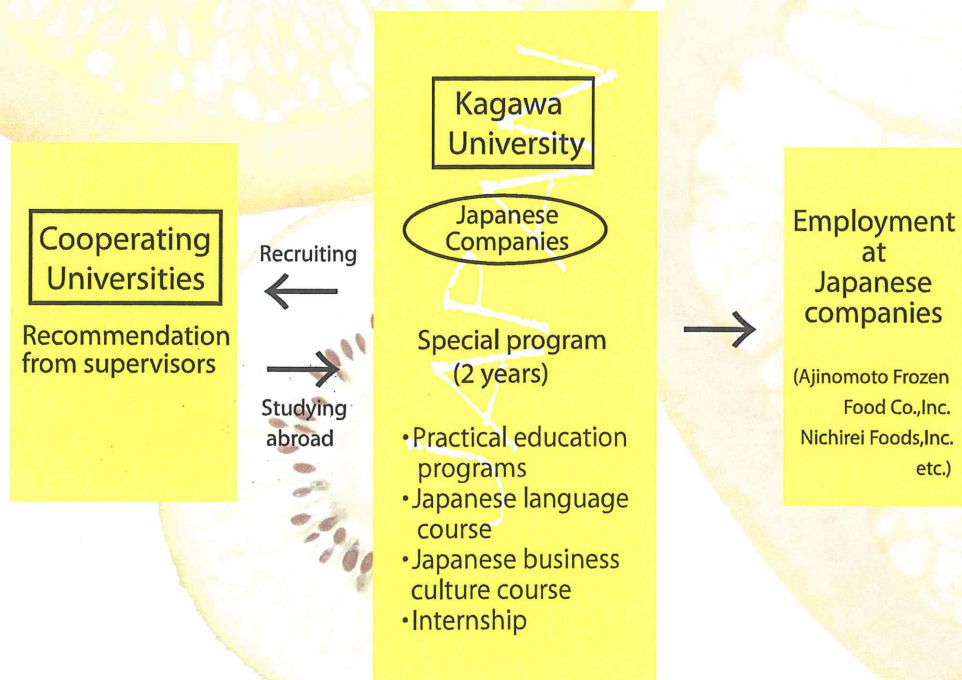

Schedule

Application requirements

- Candidates must have studied Japanese language
- Candidates must have high academic standing
- Candidates must seek professional careers in Japanese companies

Program system

Program curriculum (2 years)

Japanese language course

Japanese, Japanese Culture, Business Japanese

Practice education programs developed by the university and food industry

Chemistry and functionality of foods, Food hygiene, Food physical chemistry, Food microbiology, Physiology of food functions, Packaging technology, Frozen protection, Food safety systems, including HACCP and traceability, Vegetable crop production, Animal science

Management of technology

Management strategy of the food industry, Food risk management economy

Internship at Japanese companies

Students can develop business experience by actually working in Japanese companies

Career development assistance

Full support is provided to help foreign students find employment in Japanese companies